

Company response G4S:

Dear Salma

Thank you for contacting us regarding the recent reports on the investigation and findings of the Council on Ethics into G4S employment practices in UAE and Qatar.

We have made the following statement, which has also been published on our website:

“We welcomed the engagement with the Council on Ethics over the past three years and we wholeheartedly agree that migrant workers need care and support and deserve to be treated with dignity and respect at all times. We are committed to ensuring that they feel confident that they can raise any concerns they have about any aspect of their employment with G4S.

We carried out a robust investigation into the issues raised by the Council on Ethics into G4S’s employment practices in Qatar and the UAE. We are making good progress on our action plan to reinforce our high standards in relation to employee recruitment and welfare provisions in the Middle East.

We have appointed a full-time Migrant Worker Co-ordinator (MWC) whose primary role is to conduct research into recruitment agencies, their practices and fees in each of the countries of origin, ensuring strict compliance with our code and that our policies and standards of employment are upheld.
