Introduction:

Modern day slavery and human trafficking is a complex problem. The Modern Slavery Act integrates human rights and transparency within our global supply chains into the UK corporate regulatory framework. We have a responsibility to be alert to the risks in our business and wider supply chain.

Our Policies:

We operate under a code of conduct and associated policies that govern the integrity of our business relationships, and that recognize the values we set for of ethical trading and responsible sourcing, as well as commitments made under other aspects of our approach to corporate and social responsibility.

Our Supply chains:

Our supply chains include the sourcing of raw materials and use of contractors for the principal activities of manufacturing, installation and service of professional foodservice equipment.

Due Diligence Processes:

We adopt effective systems and controls to identify and mitigate risk, and to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place within our supply chains.

- We seek to build long standing relationships with both local and international suppliers. We make clear our expectations of business behaviour and require all suppliers to recognise the standards laid out in our ethical trading, health, safety environmental and responsible sourcing policies.
- We have systems in place to encourage the reporting of concerns and the protection of Whistle blowers.
- It is not practical for us to have a direct relationship with all suppliers within the supply chain. We expect every entity to adopt a minimum protocol of 'one up' due diligence within the next link of the supply chain.
- We periodically visit and audit our principal suppliers using Key Performance indicators to ensure the effectiveness in ensuring slavery and human trafficking is not taking place within any part of our business.

Supplier and Contractor adherence to our values:

- We have zero tolerance to slavery and human trafficking.
- We expect all those in our supply chain and contractors to uphold our values.
- The directors of each of our business units are responsible for managing their supplier relations and compliance requirements.

Training:

All Directors have been briefed on the requirements of the Modern Slavery Act. We have provided training to relevant members of our staff to ensure a high level understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains.

Our effectiveness in combating slavery and human trafficking:

- We encourage communication and personal contact with suppliers to ensure their understanding of and compliance with our expectations
- We undertake periodic surveys and audits of our suppliers
- We review and audit our working time and payroll records
- Our China based operation is independently audited under the workplace conditions assessment program to ensure best practices and social compliance achievement

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes AFE Group Ltd's slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ended 31 August 2016.
