

Stagecoach Group plc – Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement

Stagecoach Group supports the objectives of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 (“the Act”) of eliminating slavery and human trafficking and makes this statement pursuant to section 54(1) of the Act for the financial year ended 29 April 2017.

Stagecoach Group plc is the ultimate parent company of a group of companies providing transport services. That group of companies is hereafter referred to as “the Group”. Risks relating to slavery and human trafficking are considered across the Group. The Act requires commercial organisations to publish a statement as to the actions they have taken to detect and deal with acts of modern slavery in their businesses and supply chains. This obligation applies to organisations that carry on business in the UK and which have a total annual turnover in excess of £36 million. This statement is therefore made by Stagecoach Group plc and each of its subsidiaries that are required to make such a statement in accordance with the Act. The statement is also made on behalf of certain of the non-UK subsidiaries of the Group that, while not subject to the requirements of the Act, recognise the importance of a Group-wide approach to improving transparency and preventing slavery and human trafficking occurring within its supply chain. The companies making this statement are listed below.

We recognise that the Group has a responsibility to manage the risk that slavery and/or human trafficking are taking place in any of its businesses throughout the world or within its supply chains. The United Kingdom, the United States and Canada, in which the Group operates, have a developed culture of ethical business practice and strong labour regulation. The Group’s suppliers are mostly based within these countries and we have assessed the overall risk of the Group contracting with organisations that engage in slavery or human trafficking as being relatively low.

We have in place a dedicated modern slavery working group - assembled from across our rail, bus and tram divisions and comprised of representatives from our procurement, legal and compliance functions - in order to ensure ongoing monitoring of, and compliance within, our supply chain. As part of the working group’s mission to assess and address the risk of modern slavery, we are undertaking the following activities:

- Conducting an internal risk assessment of suppliers above a prescribed level of spend threshold in addition to those of the Group’s suppliers that fall below the threshold but manufacture goods or provide services in countries and/or sectors where instances of modern slavery are more likely to be prevalent.
- Consulting with those suppliers in order to understand more about their own businesses, supply chains and the steps they have taken to reduce the risk of slavery and human trafficking.

- Grouping suppliers based on the results of that consultation process into low, medium and high risk categories.
- Reviewing the Group's existing contractual arrangements and identifying ways these can be strengthened to further reduce the risk of slavery and human trafficking in our businesses and supply chains.

Following a review of the effectiveness of the steps we have taken this year we intend as an additional step to conduct an audit of the medium to high risk suppliers using an enhanced questionnaire in order to identify any issues and ensure continued compliance with the Act.

We will continue to monitor the Group's supply chain to assess ongoing risks and develop measures to further reduce the risk of slavery and human trafficking taking place in the Group's supply chain and/or businesses.

In order to assist in the eradication of modern slavery beyond the areas where the Group has influence through its business and supply chains, the Group has provided funding to charities that pursue these aims worldwide.
