In response, PepsiCo sent the following statement (which is available on its website at <http://www.pepsico.com/Purpose/Policies>):

Statement on Trade Associations and Climate Change:

Climate change is one of the most important issues of our time and requires immediate, coordinated action. Building on our track record of action on climate change, PepsiCo has a goal to reduce absolute greenhouse gas emissions across our value chain by at least 20% by 2030. This goal has been independently recognized by leading NGOs as a science-based target.

Industry action must be supported by climate policy that creates clear price signals and incentives to accelerate clean technology and needed innovation. PepsiCo does not question the science behind climate change, and we have a record of supporting climate policy through membership in the US Climate Action Partnership, signing the American Business Act on Climate Pledge, supporting the Paris Climate Accord, and becoming a founding member of the US Climate Leadership Council.

PepsiCo is a member of many trade associations and other business and civil society associations, and we do not always agree with all of the positions these associations may take on specific policy matters. On our web site we disclose our contributions to US trade associations and policy groups of which PepsiCo is a member and which lobby in the US at the state and federal level. The document may be downloaded here. PepsiCo is a member of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, but we do not serve on the organization’s Board and we do not share its views on climate policy.
