We will comply with all Nigerian laws and Chevron policy on Human Rights

We will ensure that all private and government security personnel deployed to our operations are made aware of our commitment to and expectations on human rights

We will treat others with the same respect and dignity as we expect to be treated

We will respect the individual’s dignity irrespective of a person’s race, color, sex, language, religion or status in society

We will not subject any member of society to inhuman treatment or degradation

In every community where we operate, we will uphold the rights of community members

We will embrace dialogue and the rule of law in resolving disputes and conflicts

Throughout our areas of operations we will continuously strive to foster an environment conducive to peace and respect of human rights

We will use appropriate force only where and when it becomes necessary

We will report all suspected violations of human rights to appropriate authorities

For further information on Chevron Policy 520 and the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights, please visit Chevron website at www.chevron.com/global_issues/human_rights