Legally required benefits are still denied…

…30% of contract workers still do not have social security cards and 50% do not have EOBI (pension insurance) cards….

“I’m a machine operator. I’ve been working at the Unilever Khanewal factory for 9 years. I still have no social security card. No card, no social security. I also don’t have an EOBI card.” Muhammad Khan

“I’ve been working as a machine operator for 14 years at the Unilever Khanewal factory. I’ve never received the benefits that permanent workers get and I still don’t have a social security card or an EOBI card.” Ejaz Hussain

“I know the law says I should have one, but I don’t have one. About half the contract workers don’t have EOBI cards. About a third of all the contract workers still don’t have these cards.” Muhammad Saleem

“I still don’t have an EOBI card. It’s illegal.” Sohail Shakeel

“It’s the law we should have an EOBI card so that in the future we’ll have a pension. But many of us don’t have one.” Masood Asif
